Curriculum and supporting literature

- The curriculum is essentially what has been taught during the course
 - Lectures
 - Exercises
- List of supporting literature will be provided
- Recordings of most lectures will be made available
- Most of it is already available, the rest will be there early next week

Exam

- No written exam
- Practical home project. Instructions by email next week.
- Individual. No collaboration.
- Make a ~10-15 min presentation of what you have done using PowerPoint or similar
- Oral presentation/exam, 26/27 November, on Zoom, max 30 min
- Followed by ~10-15 min of discussion of project and questions
- Questions from all parts of the course
- Do not delete your files. Be prepared to show some data generated.

Exam on Zoom

- Details etc will be announced later by email
 - Zoom info
 - Time schedule
- Computer with camera needed (we need to see you!)
- Some of the teachers will act as examiners
- Technical trouble will not influence the exam result, but may delay the exam or require rescheduling

Exam for IN-BIOS 5000 vs IN-BIOS 9000

- IN-BIOS 5000 is the master level course.
- IN-BIOS 9000 is the PhD level course.
- Those registered for the IN-BIOS 9000 course will have to complete a somewhat more advanced or larger home project than those taking the IN-BIOS 5000 course.

Exam results

- Pass or fail
- To pass, candidates needs to demonstrate broad knowledge in the whole curriculum, and good knowledge of the most central areas.
- <https://www.uio.no/english/studies/examinations/grades/grade-descriptions/mn-pass-fail.html>
- The exam result will be given right after each presentation, after some minutes of discussion between the examiners (while the candidate will be in Zoom waiting room)
- Appeals and complaints must be raised immediately after the result is announced
